Be ready to save a life - get online CPR certification

Learning cardiopulmonary resuscitation and other life-saving skills is one of the most significant decisions that can be made. American Academy is helping individuals learn skills that can make all the difference in a life-threatening emergency. Currently, the chance of surviving a sudden cardiac attack outside of a hospital is less than ten percent. More individuals need training for such situations. If cardiopulmonary resuscitation is administered as soon as the attack occurs, the chance of survival goes up significantly.

Online CPR certification may satisfy job requirements- or simply train one for an emergency. Taking a basic first aid course and knowing the current cardiopulmonary resuscitation guidelines can provide the tools needed to help save a life.

We offer free and easy-to-follow courses written by U.S. board certified physicians. They are designed to suit the needs of healthcare professionals, police officers, firefighters, teachers, and many others.

It has never been easier to get a CPR certificate online!

Take the time to learn more about the importance of cardiopulmonary resuscitation training. According to Wikipedia, cardiopulmonary resuscitation consists of chest compressions and breaths that create artificial circulation, which encourages blood to flow through the heart into parts of the body. It gives an overview of this life-saving procedure- and the importance of doing the techniques properly!

It is now easy and affordable to get first aid and CPR certification. With just a click of the mouse, training can begin at any place. Each course is free of charge and consists of all the instruction needed to perform critical life-saving skills.
